the 1990s, the number of people in the UK who are aged 65 and over has increased from 10.5 million to 12.5 million, and the number of people aged 75 and over has increased from 4.5 million to 6.5 million (Office for National Statistics 2000).

There is a growing awareness of the need to address the needs of older people in the community. The Department of Health (1999) has published a strategy for older people, which sets out a vision for the future of older people's services. The strategy is based on the following principles:

- Older people should be able to live independently in their own homes for as long as possible.
- Older people should be able to access the services and support they need to live independently.
- Older people should be able to participate in the decisions that affect their lives.
- Older people should be able to live in a safe and secure environment.
- Older people should be able to access the services and support they need to live independently.

The strategy also sets out a number of key objectives for the future of older people's services. These include:

- To ensure that older people have access to the services and support they need to live independently.
- To ensure that older people are able to participate in the decisions that affect their lives.

Decussata 1994
 Andean High School
 5959 Broadway
 Merrillville, IN 46410

Davis Barajas and Mike Del Toro lead the pack during class.

Nikki Nikruto and Chandrika Sarma laugh at Jodi Qualizza's joke.

In Mr. Mannel's Environment class Angie Aquino and Stephanie Vasquez show off their baby mice.

Julie Kukoy, Carrie Kopp, Denise Dorn, Rachel Elvambuena and Shelene Newton take a break from selling pop.

When freshmen first come to Andean, they are awed at the experience. The school is so much bigger than the grade school that they've gone to for the last eight years. They have to make new friends. They have to get used to switching classes seven times a day. They look up to the upperclassmen with something approaching amazement. They ask themselves — Will we ever get there?

By the time sophomore year has rolled around, the former freshmen now have a new confidence. They no longer have to take insults from the entire school; they can now give them out. They walk around the halls much more calmly, and they don't have to live in fear anymore. They breathe a sigh of relief and say — We're getting there.

Juniors feel the security of knowing that they are finally upperclassmen. Along with the contentment of junior year, however, come new responsibilities. Term papers, harder classes, the pressure to keep a high G.P.A. and the SAT's all converge to make life difficult for a junior. They can only console themselves and say — We're almost there.

When senior year finally arrives, all believe it will be the best year of their lives. Open lunch, dress up and dress down days, and exemptions from exams are just some of the privileges seniors enjoy. Of course, they also feel the pressure of preparing for college, applying for financial aid, and keeping their grades up despite the dreaded disease, senioritis. When graduation finally arrives, the former seniors look back on their high school years and say — We finally got there!

Matt Snawder and Tim James can't decide who has the best hat during homecoming week.

Jeremy Bilka's friends save him as he stage-dives at the homecoming dance.

Robin Lowe and Shannon Carroll appreciate the fact that they are sophomores now and one step closer.

During open house Michole Brown, president of the multi-cultural club, discusses the organization with visitors.

The highlight of the homecoming pep rally was the Brady Bunch skit performed by Denise Dorn, Mark Leeper, Matt Dorris, Jessica Farag, Derek Maravilla, Tony Scheub, Carrie Kopp, Melissa Subhasiriwat, and DeAnna Mako.

"The goals we set in our lives for ourselves are the small stepping stones toward our destination." Amy Bobin

STUDENT LIFE

"A destination is the blinking sign on the front of a Greyhound bus that alternates with Merry Christmas during the holiday season. It is average and ordinary. Anyone can take life as it comes and accept what they get. It takes hard work and discipline to take control of life." Kathleen delaPaz

Heather Maupin, Randy Renschen, and Jason Zientara discuss their weekend plans.

Ahead of the pack Melissa Subhasiriwat, Denise Dorn, Tony Scheub, and Pat Welsh pause to encourage Eric Hefley.

Brian Giovingo, Brad Kronland, Randy Renschen, Jason Zientara, and Jeremy Bilka display their musical talents.

Brian Ebersberger and Jennifer Krsevski check the guest list.

The camera catches cast members Theresa Ranta, Ben Kelner, Shane Petyko, Becky Elliott, Josh Garrett, and Jennifer Johnson in a rare moment of relaxation for The Man Who Came to Dinner.

Homecoming '93

Homecoming '93 began with a week of activities designed to raise school spirit. As it started each class decorated a set of windows in front of school or facing the courtyard. At right Katie Holscher and Lauren Lakin are shown adding the finishing touches to the first activity for the class of '97. The school was a checkerboard of red and gold when the school colors were required. Gathering under their window, a freshman English class reflects their Niner spirit. When hats were not just tolerated but required, Don Furcsik was ready with a sturdy fire helmet. Sophomores also showed their spirit by creating a colorful courtyard display. Completing the work below are Sarah Bemish, Melissa Hogg, and Julie Simon. The class of '96 continued generating spirit through the pep rally. When Aaron Wilson, Adam Magdziarz, Dan Lumbarkovski, and Mike Kackos rolled out their Fantasy Island wagon, it was awarded first place.

1993 Homecoming Queen Kathleen delaPaz and her escort Jim Sur reflect the spirit of the evening.

The '93 court and theirs escorts create a night for seniors to remember. They are Bob Lucas, Julie Kukoy, Lisa Kackos, George Kucka, Rachel Elvambuena, A.J. Sajda, Kathleen delaPaz, Jim Sur, Beth Brantley, Claude Chandler, Brandy Redden, Steve Durko.

The Nineterettes await the announcement of the name of the '93 queen.

'92 Homecoming queen Brandy Redden crowns her successor, Kathleen delaPaz.

The '93 court consists of Julie Kukoy, Lisa Kackos, Kathy delaPaz Rachel Elvambuena, Beth Brantley.

Hat Day

Bullwinkle encounters Boris Badenof on his way to class. Or is it Matt Snawder and Tim James?

Chris Davis listens intently to good advice: "Blah, blah, blah!"

Tim Sayles gives his head a good stretch.

Paul Jarzembowski brought back a useful souvenir from Denver.

Christine Wilson caught attention (not the fish) with her hat.

Shelley Long shows off her colorful, matching attire to Kim Lowe.

Homecoming Dance

Fantasy Island captures homecoming spirit '93

Michelle Negron and date enjoy the evening of dancing and fellowship.

Sophomore Holly Lowe and her date share a night to remember.

Gilbert Tinoco and his date make sure they have the perfect pose for their picture.

Junior Tim James and graduate Brenda Dreas turn it loose.

Dancing to the music of the Minute Men, Andean students know how to kick up their heels. They know how to kick them off as well.

Becky Tylka, Michelle Szwedo, and Sara Beck hold their dates Brian Cretton, Shawn O'Rourke, and Jeff Stachon close and dance the night away.

Steve Kallies steps back for a minute to let Amy Gallas take the floor.

Becky Hilbrich and her date get away from the crowd to discuss their plans following the dance.

Niners Make Papal Pilgrimage

Pope's August Visit to Denver Unites
Millions of Faithful
as Students Celebrate in Mile High City

With millions of American Catholics, Andean sophomore Sarah Bemish waits for His Holiness to appear. She was part of a group of 300 from the Gary Diocese. Twenty-five were Andean students.

Tuesday, August 10

When we first started our journey, we were told that we would have luxury buses to travel on to and from Denver. Boy, were we wrong! The buses we received were old, hot, smelly, uncomfortable, and kept breaking down. We were so excited, though, that we didn't even notice any of this right away.

Sarah Bemish

We slept at the homes of very nice families in Omaha, Nebraska. Everyone welcomed us with open arms.

Paul Jarzembowski

Wednesday, August 11

When we arrived in Denver, there was an aura I can't describe. There were friendly faces everywhere. We were walking down the street and meeting new people from all over the world.

Lucia Navarro-Walsh

Thursday, August 12

At Mile High Stadium we were able to see the Pope up close. While we were waiting for the Pope to arrive, it started to rain, but it stopped soon afterward, and a rainbow appeared.

Debi Skurow

Laura Tucker and Paul Jarzembowski are armed and ready. Paul Jarzembowski, Dave Solar, Dan Fagen, and Steve Goss take a pizza break. Ryan Nagy and Michelle Krilich relax after a long hike.

During the Papal welcome, as thousands sang "We Are One Body" in many different languages, I realized we were all there for one reason, our common faith.

Julie Simon

Friday, August 13

My group and I went around the city and said to everyone, "Hi! What's your name? Where are you from?" We could tell from their responses that they were proud of who they were and where they had come from.

Jennifer Martikean

It was interesting to be with thou-

the evening.

Paul Jarzembowski

At Cherry Creek, we were sleeping with about 800,000 people from around the world. The temperature dropped, so it was extremely cold, and the number of people made sleeping uncomfortable, but the spirit everyone had kept us going.

Sarah Bemish

Sunday, August 15

Because of the hot weather and a much higher elevation than we were used to, dehydration and heat exhaustion became a problem. During the long bus ride back to Indiana was a pretty quiet one. When we arrived at our drop-off spot, I had to say good-bye to people who just one week earlier had been total strangers. The experiences we shared left us with memories we will cherish forever.

"The experiences we shared left us with memories we will cherish forever." Beth Moran

Beth Moran

All in all, I felt that the whole experience was one I won't forget in the near future. Every moment I was awake was memorable and religiously stimulating.

Dan Fagen

Not only the Pope's presence in Denver but also the people from all over the sands of people from all over the world. I enjoyed meeting people from all over, especially from other countries.

Michele Krilich

In addition to meeting people from all over the world, we met people from our diocese at the meeting with the Bishop. Later, while everyone was trying to pack for the overnight at Cherry Creek, I got to know my roommates by singing "500 Miles" at 1:00 A.M.

Beth Moran

Saturday, August 14

We loaded our luggage onto the buses and prepared for the journey to Cherry Creek Park. In the late afternoon after a long, hot, uphill trek, we arrived at the campsite where we set down our camping gear and relaxed for Pope's Mass, people got sick, and not only members of their own groups but also total strangers helped them.

Cheryl Franks

As one of the people who was treated for a heat-related illness, I got tired of people telling me to keep drinking water. Because I was so sick, I didn't even know the Pope was saying Mass until he gave his final blessing and said good-bye.

Nancy Giovingo

Monday, August 16

While we were on our way home, our "luxury liner" bus broke down, and we were forced to stay in the lobby of a hotel until it was fixed.

Jeff Schilling

Tuesday, August 17

Because no one had slept all week, the world helped to make the week what it was. Everyone was able to break down barriers of race, sex, and color, and come together for a common cause.

Sara Krilich

An improvised shelter keeps Debi Skurow dry. The return trip finds Dave Solar fast asleep on the bus. Paul Jarzembowski, Robin Cooley, Wilfred Vivo, Brian Boru, and Sarah Bemish find it necessary to feed the body.

Turnabout '94

"It was fun when it finally happened," said Joel Rivas, who bought not one but two nosegays for his date Mary Madej. "The first one I bought wilted and died before the dance because a snow storm postponed Turnabout for two weeks."

The girls-ask-guys dance finally took place on March 11. DJ Thom Zimmer provided music for the annual event, sponsored by the Student Council, who chose Mardi Gras as the theme, complete with float and masks. Cookies and punch, prepared by council members, refreshed the dancers.

The electric slide captures the attention of DeAnna Mako, Jenn Herr, Kelly Powers, and Amber Zimmer.

Erica Hein, Adriane Osby, Tim James, Mike Reist, Cassie Grandfield, Jason Zientara, and Mandy Venturin are dressed for an evening of dancing and fun.

Nina Williams leads her date to the dance floor for a slow number.

Having a good time at Turnabout are Kim Cain and Kristen Dorris.

An arch of balloons greets guests Stacy Arentz, Amy Bobin, Amy's date, Denise Dorn, and Tony Scheub.

LaTrice Allen admires Kia Broughton's earrings at intermission.

Jenny Bryant fixes her date's boutonniere before the music starts.

Eileen Grogan and Michael Bradach take a break with Mike O'Brien.

Jason Mitchell escorts Kelley Rak to the gym.

Daddy Date Night

During a night of dinner and dancing at the Hobart Elks Club, seniors Hillary Hitchcock, Jenn Herr, and Carrie Kopp kept their fathers entertained. The annual party drew Andean girls and their fathers in record numbers. Awards were presented to those seniors and their fathers who had attended all four years.

Rachel Elvambueno encourages her father to sing along.

Katie Kucka and Tracy Velez show their dads the latest dance steps.

Mommy Date Night

The annual Mommy Date Night was held at the Hobart Elks Club. During dinner and dancing seniors who had attended all four years were honored. Rodell Jao entertained both his mother and grandmother, but Mrs. Mirro was entertained by Matt and Mike.

Quentin Smith and Chancie Thompson make certain everyone looks just right as Phil Wielgus and his mom wait for the music to begin.

John Puntillo doesn't have any trouble keeping up with his mom on the dance floor.

Niners Travel Abroad

Addie Pampalone spent April in Paris. She stopped for a moment beneath the Eiffel Tower.

Touring the grounds of the palace at Versailles, Kelly Powers found the playhouse Marie Antoinette ordered built.

Paul Jarzembowski and Jennifer Martikean stopped during their Italian museum tour to look at some of the ruins from Pompeii.

The plaza and the sunshine lured Doreen Heinz, Paul Jarzembowski, and Jennifer Martikean to an Italian cafe.

Jared Smith and Jodi Qualizza discover the significance of this old Roman tomb.

With the ever-present clouds and Big Ben in the background, Becky Elliott stands beside the river Thames.

In the shadows of an ancient crypt, Kathryn Walker and Chandrika Sarma decide who will take the first picture.

Although they spent much of the time wet, Eileen Sullivan, Linda Bacon, Angie Tomlin, Josh Garrett, Cassie Grandfield, Tony Williams, Becky Elliott, and Kelly Casale kept their spirits up in England.

Prom Memorable

Elegance characterized the 1994 prom, held for the first time at Villa Cesare in Schererville. In their formal attire, dancers moved between the dance floor and the picture taking location. After dancing to the music of the DJ, they refreshed themselves with punch and appetizers before leaving for a variety of after-prom night spots.

The evening was highlighted by the grand march, which culminated in the crowning of Mandy Fernandez as prom queen and Mike Keist as prom king.

Stacey Arentz, Denise Dorn, Carrie Ballentine, Randy Renschen, Mike Uskert, and Tony Williams choose to arrive the old-fashioned way.

Royal smiles were evident on the faces of Mandy Fernandez and Tony DalSanto.

Sandy Schumann, Nancy Naperala, and Allison Legler return to their table, where Tom Superitis is enjoying his appetizer.

Melissa Subhasriwat checks her reflection making sure she looks her best.

While Derek Maravilla's date is powdering her nose, Mike Hecimovich, Anne Wisniewski, Ryan Hopp, Lori Rachoy, Tom Hadt and his date, George Kucka and Adriane Osby catch the photographer's attention.

The surroundings obviously pleased Brook Hashiguchi, Tracy Wesolowski, and Stacey Mindel.

Choices, Choices, Choices

College Preparation is a Four-Year Job

"How can I find out which college is best for me?"

"I'm afraid that, when I graduate, I won't be able to afford college."

"Notre Dame is a family tradition, but I want to go somewhere else. How can I convince my parents?"

"Starting tomorrow, I'm going to work harder and bring up my class rank."

Long before graduation arrives, in some cases long before senior year, students begin to think about college. The choice of a career or a college major, the choice of a school itself, and the requirements for admission are important concerns for most Niners, almost all of whom will go on to some form of higher education after graduation from Andean.

Some students seem to have no problem choosing a school. They have known since nursery school that some day they'll be Boilermakers or Fighting Irish or Hoosiers. Others visit campus after campus, talk with college friends and relatives, read stacks of catalogs, and still can't make that all-important choice. Or is it?

"I don't think choosing the right college is really as serious as most students imagine," says senior English teacher Mrs. Thomas. "Students are always terrified of making a wrong college choice, but sometimes you really can't decide if a school is right for you until you've actually been there." She sees many of her former students transferring after one or two years to a second or even third school.

"The important thing is to choose a college or university that has a good academic standing, so that your credit hours will transfer and you won't lose either time or money if you decide to change schools," she says.

Cost is another important factor. For many students, it's THE factor that determines their choice. With the cost of some four-year schools at $100,000 today, selecting the right high school courses, meeting all the college prep requirements, keeping grades high, and watching for scholarship opportunities are important even to freshmen.

Athletic talent can be traded for a higher education, but even among top athletes, competition is stiff at most schools. More and more, colleges look at academic as well as athletic talent. With plenty of applicants from which to choose, colleges select the scholar-athlete over the athlete who needs coaching in the classroom as well as in the field.

For the athletically challenged, however, grades are the way to go. Almost every scholarship requires good academic standing, even those based primarily on other qualities such as leadership or character.

When senior year rolls around, it's time to start working seriously on college admissions. Families must fill out financial aid forms correctly and return them to counselors and colleges. Students begin sending in applications and asking teachers, counselors, and coaches to write recommendation letters. Counselors find their fall and early winter days filled with student requests for transcripts to be sent to colleges in every corner of the country.

Some colleges require essays. "What do you hope to achieve by attending XYZ college?" "What is your greatest achievement?" "If you could relive one day of your life so far, which day would it be?" "What famous individual, living or dead, would you most like to meet?"

Why?" In addition to regular class work, seniors are often plagued with the task of answering these questions to present themselves and their achievements in the best possible light while seeming modest and well-mannered.

The college interview is, for some people, the living nightmare that haunts their senior year. Having resolved the important issues of clothes and personal grooming, there are anxieties about speech and grammar and the ever-present terror of sticking one's foot in one's mouth and sounding like a total moron, unfit for that school or any other.

Grades, skills, applications, and interviews notwithstanding, Andean students must be doing something right. The class of 1994, collectively, earned more than 120 scholarships to such varied schools as Amherst, Wabash, University of Missouri, Notre Dame, Spellman, University of Tampa, Michigan State, Indiana, and Purdue.

Musicians perform

Before their spring concert appearance, members of the band and choir performed for their toughest audience, their peers. During an extended home-room the student body experienced a sampling of the program to be presented to the general public that weekend.

Students and faculty enjoyed one of the hits from the movie Sister Act when a quintet sang "Salve Regina." The band followed with a portion of the John Williams medley they included in the evening performance. Both groups were led by Ms. Stephanie Barber.

Walkathon

The 1993 Walkathon earned more than $19,000 for Andean's many organizations, sports, classes, and other groups, as all but six students walked the 10 kilometer course and collected pledges. The six, who were medical exemptions, assisted in support services for the walkers, bringing student involvement to 100%

Every student who participated in the fundraising received a coupon for free food, and the athletic department donated four basketball passes. Not to be outdone, the Student Council offered a free prom ticket, won by Don Fursick.

Joining voices in a favorite song, Hilary Hitchcock, Jenn Herr, Carrie Kopp, DeAnna Mako, Jessica Farag, and Fawn Nowak unwind after their long hike.

Christine Wilson and Katie Tyler enjoy the crisp autumn day.

Melissa Hainsworth, Rosemarie Kanapilly, and Doreen Heintz find it a challenge to walk with their eyes shut.

Julie Lang and Chrissy Dickerson begin to show signs of fatigue as they round the final lap.

Tameka Warren, Tammy Lemon, Nadia Jackson, Michole Brown, and Dan Fagen lead the pack as Walkathon begins.

After walking 10 kilometers, Niners would rather listen than dance to the music of Scott Burdan, Geoff Pawlowski, John Sullivan, Jason Heacock.

A cold drink is a welcome sight for walkers Andy Farag, Matt Mirro, Tracy Weslowski, and Tony Kinkade.

Juniors such as Chris Jury, Tim Parker, Dustin Dec, Brian Dumonte, and Karol Mastalski help to fatten their class treasury by $715.20.

Bishop Grutka Lived the Message He

When Bishop Andrew G. Grutka died on November 11, 1993, the diocese lost its first bishop, and Andrean lost its founder. Commenting on his importance to the school, Father Cerretto recalled that Andrean exists because "he believed in Catholic education."

Upon his retirement, Bishop Grutka had been bishop of a single diocese longer than any other active bishop in the United States, having begun his service to the diocese in December of 1956.

After ordination in 1933, then Father Grutka, an outspoken critic of racial injustice, began a priestly career that always included a sensitivity toward social issues. National, state, and local groups acknowledged his lifelong commitment.

For Andrean, however, and the cession to the back of the gym and go into the lobby where he removed his vestments to prepare for his return home. The students, as if they understood what to do without having to be told, sat and waited. Within a few minutes the Bishop began his walk through the gym to leave through the front doors. As he entered, the students would stand as one and applaud, returning the love they had received during the celebration of the Eucharist. The smile on his face always showed what the acknowledgment meant to him.

At the formal dedication of the school named in his honor, Bishop Grutka raised the crucifix.

Accompanied by Father Joe and Father Cerretto, Bishop Grutka said his final Mass at Andrean during the '92-'93 school year.

numerous graduates and students who remember his visits, it is the warmth of his smile and his obvious pleasure in saying Mass at his school that will be recalled. Former Andrean assistant principal Sister Christopher, SS.C.M., described the Bishop as "a very kind, loving, perceptive, and understanding man." Somehow, whenever he spoke, the Bishop reminded Niners that "it's not what you know; it's what you show." His listeners never tired of hearing that message, and he never tired of living that ideal. After his yearly Mass at school, the Bishop would complete the pro-

Construction on the school the Bishop dreamed of continued through the summer of '59.

Bishop Grutka was an eager participant in school activities. From football games to commencement ceremonies, he was a regular presence. As he did throughout his term, the Bishop conferred diplomas in 1975.

Niners Defeat Merrillville

Andrean defeated Merrillville for the first time in eight years this season. Merrillville's Homecoming loss came on a kick by John Lubash in the last seconds of the game. The score was three to zero, and Coach Ivan Zimmer decided go for a field goal. The players accepted and executed the play well. When the game was over, the 59ers enjoyed a victory lap around the new Merrillville stadium. The team ended its season with a 21-7 sectional loss against Griffith ping stone to gain more experience for next year.

The freshmen started their football careers with a 2-8 record. When asked to describe the freshmen season, many exclaimed, "We got new pants!" Freshman player Robert Roper commented on the season, "I think that my freshmen year in football was very fulfilling. I believe I did my job the best I could. I'm looking forward to next season to improve my talents."

The JV team's record was 0-7; however, a few of these games were close. Most of the players used this opportunity as a step-

Perfectly Exciting

The varsity season was one filled with excitement. Coming alive during the sectional, the Niners enjoyed their third victory of the season over West Side. Moving into regional play the Niners faced neighborhood rival Merrillville. Battling through overtime, the team prevailed and moved to the evening championship against favored E.C. Central. Fans will not forget the intensity the team showed in a dramatic effort.

The JV team charged through their season with a spotless record. Not one loss showed up in the 21 games. Commenting of this remarkable showing, sophomore Jake Schneider said, "It was a remarkable team effort. We all got along well and had a great coach."

BASKETBALL

Seniors Lead the Way

Led by co-captains Lisa Kackos and Miffy Hovanec, the girls ended their season with a 9-9 record. Lisa led the team in scoring, rebounds, and blocks. She also broke the single game scoring record when she hit 37 points in one game. Her season performance earned a spot on the Times All-area First Team.

The season proved to be a learning experience for the future. The girls beat the teams they should have and learned from their losses according to Coach Staley. The season ended with a tough loss to Crown Point in the first round of sectional play.

Niners Go One Step Further

In going further than any baseball team in Andrean history, this year's Niners battled not only top opposition, but also the elements. After two delays for rain and lightning, the Niners won a regional championship against Crown Point. That game had been suspended after 3 innings with the Niners down 2-0. John Lubash returned after the interruption to win the game in extra innings. This gave both regional victories to Lubash.

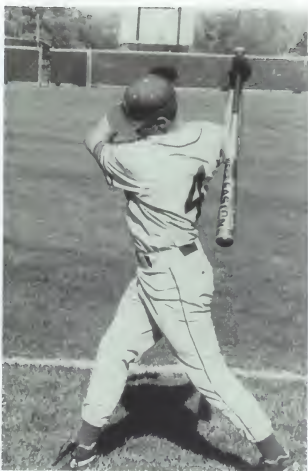

The weather presented a different problem the following week in Lafayette. The Niners fought through extra innings again, this time in 95 degree heat and humidity. Coming back at night, after only 2 hours between games, the Niners fell, again in extra innings, to McCutcheon, the eventual runner-up in the state championship.

In reaching this championship game, the Niners accomplished the goal set for them the previous year by Coach Dave Pishkur. In the previous season the Niners had fallen in the first semi-state game. Coach Pishkur's goal all year had been "one game further."

John Lubash prepares to face the LaPorte pitcher.

BOYS' GOLF

"They just got better and better."

The scoreboard tells only part of the tale of a stellar season for boys' golf, with expected triumphs and serendipitous victories, not the least of which was the addition of Brett Strbjak, freshman, who quickly earned Most Valuable status on the team. In addition to consistent low scores, he was the only Niner...and Andrean's first freshman...to qualify for state competition.

Coach Grzych acknowledged the season's excellence as a result of consistent, unified effort on the part of every golfer, citing John Puntillo as Most Improved Player. Other valuable varsity members were Tom Farley, Jack Degnan, Tom Superits, and George Kucka.

"Our best match? Definitely against River Forest," said Coach Grzych. "We shot a 144 to their 204."

Brett Strbjak disagreed. "Even though we lost against Crown Point, it was a big victory. They have usually beaten us by a landslide. To keep the scores that close against a powerhouse like Crown Point meant more to me than beating a less impressive opponent."

Battling to the End

The boys' soccer team suffered a blow at the beginning of the season with the loss of veteran player Andy Franks. Adjusting to the loss the Niners fought to a 11-4-3 record.

Tony DalSanto led the Niners in scoring again this season. He was chosen with Jim Sur and Steve Michael to make a summer trip to China. Joining a group from Evansville, the players will compete against teams half way around the world.

Team members learn that practice makes perfect.

Freshmen starting out

In the beginning there were freshmen, the youngest members of the high school family. As a part of the family all members know their positions, and look up to those older than they. Tony Padilla's philosophy on this rank is, "Remember, no matter how good you think you are there is always someone better — especially if you are a freshman."

When freshmen first arrive, they are apprehensive about the new surroundings and afraid of not being accepted. "Our class learned that you can meet new people and make new friends as long as you are yourself," explain Maureen Borto and Katie Rak.

For security and comfort freshmen always flock together. Whether at a retreat or a basketball game, or even just waiting for pictures, it's "All for one and one for all."

Theology projects are a perennial part of the Freshman Bib Lit I curriculum. The projects are meant to bring life into the classroom and help students better understand what they are learning. The topics vary greatly including banners depicting Bible quotations and models of such items as the Ten Commandments or the Ark of the Covenant. The interesting displays, along with presentations by the Bib Lit students, made Mr. Dolan's classroom a popular stop for visitors during the Open House.

Say Cheese!

School Picture Day, also known as the one day you spend hours getting ready for school, so you can be teased by a photographer who keeps calling you Peaches, and having a picture taken which will be seen by everyone and preserved forever in the yearbook has become one of the most dreaded days of the school year. "The worst part about getting my picture taken is that I can't see how I look when they take the picture," says junior Jill Moreth. "You never know when the picture is going to be taken," adds freshman Lynn Chorak, "so you end up having a stupid look on your face." Sophomore Kyle Hitchcock says, "I hate having to look at the flash."

Ten out of ten people think they look bad in their school pictures, but when asked whether or not they bought their school pictures, nine out of ten said they did. The reason? "My mom loves to give them to relatives," says junior Beth Edwards. Sophomore Aimee Rozin adds, "I give them to my friends," and Matt Dorris says he buys his pictures "for the memories they help to create."

As Beth Edwards looks on, Jill Moreth tries to fix her hair so her picture will turn out as she wants it to.

Sophomores under way

After surviving their first year at Andrean, sophomores are much more comfortable with their surroundings. Elizabeth DelCastillo, Sara Beck, and Angie Armenta entertain their class by standing on their desks. Sophomores begin to realize their teachers can have fun too. A group of sophomores attack Father Joe after a class. Friendships that were made in the past remain, and new friendships are formed. Eva Hecimovich, Erin Maravilla, and Bessie Pangere take a break to show off their friendship.

Ten Rules for Sophomore

1. Get a new set of excuses. The ones you used last year do not work on sophomore teachers.
2. Devote the entire year to finding a junior or senior to take you to the prom.
3. Laugh at ALL the jokes in driver's ed class.
4. Start memorizing Julius Caesar now.
5. Don't ask why $a^2 + b^2 = c^2$. It just does.
6. Start treating juniors with more respect. They will be seniors soon.
7. At all costs, avoid getting stuck as Turkey in the WWI game.
8. Relax. Snow happens to freshmen, not sophomores.
9. Remember that Bunsen burners were not installed to help you get rid of deficiency notices.
10. When the teacher announces a movie in morality class, bring a barf bag.

During the third quarter, when everyone starts to look forward to summer vacation and freedom, the juniors at Andean have something else to look forward to, their term papers! They must learn how to use the resources at the library properly in order to write a satisfactory paper, which is a majority of their English grade.

Motivation and time seem to be key elements in writing the term paper. "I feel the hardest part will be finding all the time to do the paper, since we'll have other homework to do," says Brian Stuck. Tanya Carter agrees and adds, "I am going to have trouble making myself write it." Another difficulty in writing the paper is trying to put everything together that the teachers are demanding. As Hillary Buschelmann explains, "I feel the worst part will be trying to find all the information I need and making sure I include everything that has to be put in."

Despite what everyone may think about teachers when it they will not get too bored writing the paper," adds Kim Cain.

Many people ask why term papers are so important. "I feel writing this paper will help me by teaching me to write in a way that allows me to communicate with people," explains Tony Kinkade. "I will know how to research a topic and write about it," states Matt Snawder. "This will benefit me in college when I have to write research papers."

"All in all, I think it's going to be very hard for me to even figure out where to start because I'm so disorganized," says Adriane Osby. Matt Snawder offers his insight on the subject, "This paper will demand a lot of time and energy from everyone. I hope I get as much out of it as I put in, but don't we all?"

comes to term papers, they are not out to make you flunk. "I think Mrs. Dakich really wants us to do well," says Adriane Osby. "She prepares us well by showing us what to do step by step." "Mrs. Steele helps everyone choose a topic they will enjoy doing, so

Baccalaureate

"We are the sons of the morning; we are the daughters of day..." Promptly at seven p.m. the procession of Andrean seniors, gownned in red or gold, entered Our Lady of Consolation Church in Merrillville for the annual Baccalaureate Mass on June 9. Black-robed faculty and administrators followed, and Student Council President Joe Schenher read the introduction to members of the class of 1994 and their families.

Principal speaker and celebrant was the Most Reverend Dale Melczek, acting Bishop of the Diocese of Gary. Basilian Fathers, including Rev. Michael Cerretto, Rev. Paul Quanz, Rev. Joseph Lanzalaco, Rev. John Murphy, and Rev. John Fiore, concelebrated the Mass, along with Rev. Theodore Mens, Rev. Stephen Titko, Rev. John Winterlin, Rev. Thomas Mischler, Rev. Robert Gehring, and Rev. Joseph Varnos.

The Bishop thanked Father Cerretto for giving many years of service to Andrean and for having made many significant and positive changes during his tenure as its principal. Father Cerretto, who will accept an administrative post at St. Thomas High School in Houston, Texas in August, acknowledged his thanks and made a brief farewell speech.

Acolytes were Jeff Cox, John Ayoub, Joel Rivas, James Salvo, Tim Gutowski, and James Sarkey. Tanisha Colon was cross-bearer. Other participants were readers Amy Bobin, Amber Zimmer, and Tamara Ray. Rachel Elvambuena, Mike Reist, Lucia Navarro-Walsh, and James Sur presented the gifts.

Campus Minister Mrs. Ventura guided the Baccalaureate committee of Jill Embry, Julie Kukoy, and Lucia Navarro-Walsh, in making arrangements for the event. Musicians for the Mass were Mrs. Judy Renn, organist, and Tony Walla and Kara Gonzalez, trumpeters. Sharon Kozub was cantor.

Following the Eucharist, Jill Embry and Nicole Pfeifer presided over the traditional presentation of symbols of Andrean life by Julie Kukoy, Bill Finn, Josh Garrett, Brian Bajgrowicz, Kelly Powers, Amy Moskalick, Mat Taylor, Becky Elliott, Michelle Kornafel, Carrie Kopp, Rob Carpio, Nicole Milos, and Derek Maravilla.

Following the closing hymn and before the final procession, graduation candidates rose to sing together, for what they realized was the next-to-the last time,

"Proudly wearing red and gold,
Her sons and daughters shall uphold
Andrean's fame, her glorious name,
Her honor ever proclaim."

Center: The B's have it, as Amy Bobin, Diana Bohling, Beth Brantley, and Joseph Brennan wait for their diplomas. As speech time approaches, Mike Reist and Liz Shevik compare sweaty palms. COMMENCEMENT

Indiana University's assistant basketball coach, Dan Dakich (Andrean '81), addressed graduates and their families on Sunday, June 12, a steamy late-spring afternoon, at Andrean's thirty-second annual graduation exercises.

Ceremonies in the school's main gymnasium began with salutatory remarks by Liz Shevik and ended with the Alma Mater. In the intervening hour, Father Cerretto and Dr. John Shields, Superintendent of Education for the Gary Diocese, distributed 198 diplomas and 198 handshakes to the class of '94. Sister Philothea announced the more than two hundred awards and scholarships that members of the class had earned. Mike Reist, valedictorian, bid farewell to Andrean on behalf of his classmates. And then it was over.

Just like that, at least twelve years of school, four of them at Andrean, had ended in an hour. Afterwards, the new graduates milled about the parking lot, clutching bouquets, embracing friends with smiles or tears, posing for pictures, thanking their proud families, eager to be free but reluctant to go. Then it was time to turn in caps and gowns and head for a month-long round of graduation parties with friends and favorite relatives, welcome gifts that would make the future a little brighter, and the obligatory red-and-gold-trimmed cakes.

Top: Tanaya Morgan's friends say it with flowers, and with balloons, too. Center: Dave Solar and his grandmother share a congratulatory hug. I.U. assistant basketball coach and Andrean alumnus Dan Dakich addresses the class of 1994. Bottom: Carrie Copp and family are ready to celebrate.

What memory of Andean will stay with you for the rest of your life?

"The friendships I've made at Andean are definitely what will stay with me the longest. They are what kept me going throughout the years." — Nicole Pfeifer

"I remember coming to Andean second semester, and everyone greeted me and was willing to show me around. Andean has open arms for new people and makes them feel at home." — Jamie Morrow

At the homecoming game Jim Sur gives Kathleen de la Paz a congratulatory hug as A.J. Sajda and Rachel Elvambuena look on.

It's hat day and Mike Reist checks the homecoming plans of his English classmates.

was a year filled with many memories, some we will never forget, some we'd like to forget, and some that will just fade away. Our senior year began with "Out the door in '94" t-shirts, a Halloween trip to Great America, the government convention, and the Christmas dinner.

Through the year, there were six car crashes, two drama productions, the weekend retreats, and a multicultural assembly. Seniors attended their last homecoming, last turnabout, last prom.

Unique to our class were trips to Gurnee Mills and to Florida, a picnic at Hidden Lake, a banquet, and our senior privileges.

Finally, the seniors, along with Tito, the class mascot, graduated and said goodbye to four years at Andean. The school will never be the same again.

Top, left: Chris Dimoff rolls the dice for "polar bears around the icehole" while his statistics classmates look on. Middle: Roby Carpio assumes his role as Snoopy for You're a Good Man Charlie Brown. Bottom, left: Amy Moskalick, Andrea Zacek, Amanda Azcona, and Cheryl Dienes relax at the senior picnic at Hidden Lake. Above: Joe Schenher, Billy Finn, Tony Dal-Santo, Steve Michael, and Mandy Venturin act out "Father Abraham" at a weekend retreat.

The class of '94 began a tradition when they gathered for an afternoon of volleyball, music, and tanning at Hidden Lake on May 19. Along with this first, however, these seniors will be the last to enjoy weekly open lunch privileges. Legal considerations and rising insurance costs will prevent future noontime treks to Taco Bell, Arby's, and other fast-food favorites.

Andrean 59ers topped an Associated Press list of unique nicknames of Indiana high schools. Other nicknames mentioned included the Rising Sun Shiners, Rensselaer Bombers, Speedway Sparkplugs, and Attica Ramblers.

The National Honor Society revised its tutoring policy during second semester. Members signed up assist students for thirty minutes in either the morning or afternoon at the guidance office. Previously, each student who needed assistance was assigned an NHS tutor.

Tony Melendez, born without arms, performed here March 8. Melendez, who plays the guitar with his feet, won rave reviews. The Right to Life Organization sponsored his appearance.

"By involving the students in his songs, he taught them that they should be participants, not just spectators," said Fr. Cerretto.

Padraig Johnston, sophomore, and junior Nadia Jackson won oratorical honors. Padraig took first place in both local and regional Optimist Club speech contests, and Nadia, first place in the local Voice of Democracy competition. Nadia also took first prize in a speech contest sponsored by the Right to Life Organization. Other honors for Nadia came from McDonald's in the form of a $1000 prize for her essay on black leadership.

ANDREAN

Addie Pampalone admires her handiwork after Mike Reist has accepted John Puntillo's double dog dare to have his hair styled in pigtails.

Father Cerretto presents an NHS stole to Rachel Elvambuenia.

Rev. Michael Cerretto, C.S.B., has completed the final year of his term as Andrean principal. He will assume a similar post at St. Thomas High School, a boys' school in Houston, Texas.

Father Cerretto, a native of Rochester, New York, attended Aquinas Institute, where he also taught before coming to Andrean. After he earned degrees from St. John Fisher in Rochester and St. Michael's in Toronto, he pursued his final vows.

"He will be remembered for his personality — kind of rough and gruff but all heart," predicted Father Murphy.

Father Lanzalaco said, "He'll be remembered as someone who had a fine sense of humor and was really interested in the students."

Rev. Paul Quanz, C.S.B. a former science teacher, counselor, and treasurer of Andrean, will replace Father Cerretto as principal.

Seventy students and teachers donated blood in the student council-sponsored blood drive on March 24. Jill Petrick, student council secretary, organized the event with the help of Mrs. Bosak and Mrs. Hevel, student council moderators. Personnel from Heartland, an area blood bank, administered the day-long blood donation program.

Indiana's state student council project this year was a contribution to the cardiovascular unit at Riley Hospital in Indianapolis. Andrean did its part by sending $250, raised through regular missions collections, to the children's hospital. Here, Robyn Nickson takes home-room donations.

Gordon Gouveia and Michael Mirro earned gold medals and recognition as summa cum laude for their scores on the National Latin exam.

Freshmen Shari Norris and Brett Strbjak qualified for state golf finals. They are the first Andrean ninth graders ever to earn this honor. Only four other Hoosier freshmen qualified.

Groen's Fine Furniture of Dyer encouraged the class of 1994 to stay sober and avoid riding with intoxicated drivers on graduation night. Seniors received pledge sheets to sign, and those who kept their promises were given Lane Keepsake cedar chests.

Andrean sophomore Trevor Hennington's art work was chosen to appear on the back of Chicago Bears football tickets.

Junior Amber Alm earned Volleyball Player of the Year Award from the Hammond Times. Kellyn Gurnak and Lisa Kackos were named to the first team and Beth Magdziarz to the state Academic All-Stars.

Mrs. Petra Steele, above, was the 1994 Inland-Ryerson Foundation Outstanding Teacher award winner. An English teacher at Andrean for 10 years, she is also Decussata moderator. Although Mrs. Steele holds degrees from Indiana and Purdue Universities, she is an avid Notre Dame fan.

From August 12 to August 15, Pope John Paul II was in Denver, Colorado, to celebrate World Youth Day. An estimated crowd of 160,000 welcomed him, including a delegation of young people from the Gary Diocese.

Wanted in connection with the murder of his ex-wife and another person, football great O. J. Simpson led Los Angeles police on an evening-long odyssey June 17. Taken into custody at his home in suburban Brentwood and held without bond, the Heisman trophy winner awaited arraignment in the Los Angeles County jail.

After having won the right not to have any further contact with her biological parents, Kimberly Mays, 14, who had been switched with another baby at birth, chose to leave her adoptive father and return to her natural parents.

President Bill Clinton presented a national health insurance plan, causing heated Congressional debates and the creation of a least nine other health-care plans. First Lady Hillary Rodham Clinton was given the task of finding solutions to America's health-care problems.

Israeli Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin and Palestine Liberation Organization Chariman Yasser Arafat signed a landmark treaty establishing a new Palestinian homeland on the West Bank and Gaza Strip. This agreement was a major catalyst for the prospect of peace between Jews and Arabs.

THE YEAR

Ryne Sandberg, the Cubs' nine-time all-star second baseman, retired in mid-season. Sandberg earned the second highest field percentage of all second basemen, playing 92 consecutive games without an error.

All-time basketball great Michael Jordan retired from the Chicago Bulls after winning his third consecutive National Basketball Association championship ring. Shortly afterwards, Jordan donned a White Sox jersey and began spring training in Florida as a rookie, realizing a life-long dream of becoming a professional baseball player.

More than forty passengers died near Mobile, Alabama, when an Amtrak train plunged from a collapsing bridge into Big Bayou Canal. Earlier, a barge had struck and damaged the bridge.

The 37th President of the United States, Richard M. Nixon, died April 22. Nixon succeeded in establishing relations with China and ending American military involvement in Vietnam before he was forced to resign at the height of the 1973 Watergate scandal.

Fighting continued in the former Yugoslavian state of Bosnia Herzegovina. More than 200,000 people were killed or missing as Muslims, Serbs, and Croats tried to seize territory before reaching a political settlement.

With ticket sales of $712 million, Jurassic Park, directed by Steven Spielberg, passed ET as the biggest money-making film ever.

A Michigan family lost custody of the child they had adopted two years earlier. A judge returned Baby Jessica to her birth parents on grounds that, while her birth mother had consented to the adoption, the child's natural father had not.

Amid controversy, Congress okayed the North American Free Trade Agreement. The pact, known as NAFTA, will permit duty-free commerce among the United States, Mexico, and Canada.

Locked in a power struggle for several months, Russian President Boris Yeltsin's supporters defeated an attempted coup by his former vice president. Russians termed it the worst civilian conflict since 1917 as Yeltsin dissolved Parliament and ordered his troops to storm the building.

October fires swept through parts of Southern California, demolishing more than 700 houses. Arson is suspected in some of the fires, which destroyed 200,000 acres. Three weeks later, another set of fires destroyed over 300 homes near the Pacific Coast.

Civil war and other acts of terrorism continued in Somalia after U. S. troops pulled out in March. American military involvement had failed to end violence in this war-torn country. United Nations forces recruited from developing nations replaced those from the U. S. and Europe.

Jacqueline Bouvier Kennedy Onassis, the widow of U. S. President John F. Kennedy and of Greek billionaire Aristotle Onassis, died of cancer at 65.

Lillehammer, Norway, hosted the 1994 Winter Olympics. Jane Torvill and Christopher Dean, who earned a perfect score in ice dancing at the Sarajevo Olympics ten years before, reentered to win silver medals.

Tragedy, then triumph, captured the spotlight for world-record-setting speed skater Dan Jansen who lost a sister to cancer during the 1988 Olympics. In Calgary in 1988, at Albertville in 1992, and again in 1994, he lost his balance and ended unsuccessfully. In his final event at Lillehammer, however, the 1,000 meter race, he earned a gold medal.

Olympic hopeful Tonya Harding was accused of arranging an attack on rival U. S. figure skater Nancy Kerrigan. After Harding's ex-husband, Jeff Gillooly, confessed, Harding admitted knowing of the plan which was intended to eliminate Kerrigan and assure Harding a place on the team. Although Kerrigan recovered from leg injuries she received in the attack, Harding also skated in the Olympics. The gold medal for figure skating, however, eluded both, going instead to sixteen-year-old Russian Oksana Baiul. Kerrigan finished second in the competition, Harding eighth.

Gary native and music superstar Michael Jackson settled out of court for a rumored $7 million when he was sued for molesting an eleven-year-old boy.

Documents released through the Freedom of Information Act revealed that the Pentagon and the Atomic Energy Commission knowingly exposed U. S. troops to high levels of radiation during nuclear tests in the 1950's. At the same time, some school children were deliberately exposed to low doses of radiation through school lunch programs.

South Africa's new constitution, approved on November 18, led to May elections in which ANC leader Nelson Mandela was elected President. Blacks voted for the first time in the history of that nation.

Ceremonies in the U. S., Britain, and France marked the fiftieth anniversary of D-Day, when Allied forces stormed Normandy beaches on their way to France, Germany, and ultimate Allied victory in 1945.

Siamese twins Angela and Amy Lakeberg of Northwest Indiana were separated August 20, 1993, in a controversial procedure at Children's Hospital in Philadelphia after University of Chicago physicians declined to perform the surgery. Amy died during the operation, but Angela lived 11 months before succumbing to a heart malfunction.

The deaths of the twins, the first anticipated and the second relatively unexpected after so many months of survival, caused widespread debate about justification for such a high-risk operation. The cost of the surgery and subsequent care of the babies has been estimated at more than one million dollars.

The twins' father, Kenneth Lakeberg, used money donated for medical expenses by the sympathetic community to buy cocaine and a car for himself.

Chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee Dan Rostenkowski of Chicago was indicted on 17 counts of fraud, including alleged ghost-payrolling and defrauding the U.S. Postal Service.

An earthquake of 6.8 Richter Scale magnitude struck northern suburbs of Los Angeles on January 17, killing 43 people and displacing thousands. Property damage, both public and private, was inestimable.

In May, Congress passed the long-debated Brady Bill, which requires a five-day waiting period for handgun buyers. Strongly opposed by the National Rifle Association, the bill's proponents hoped to quell the rising number of gun-related deaths in the U. S. The bill took its name from James Brady, former White House Press Secretary, who suffered brain damage when he was shot by an assassin whose target was then-President Ronald Reagan.

With the arrival at any long-awaited destination, travelers come to the realization that they have mixed emotions. Although everyone asks many times, "Are we there yet?" arriving can produce sadness.

The poet C.P. Cavafy in his poem "Ithaca" emphasizes the value of the journey rather than the destination:

*When you start on your journey to Ithaca,
Then pray that the road is long,
Full of adventure, full of knowledge.*

Cavafy does not, however, minimize the value of setting goals and working toward them:

*Always keep Ithaca fixed in your mind.
To arrive there is your ultimate goal.
But do not hurry the voyage at all.*

It may be against our nature not to hurry, not to rush the quarters, semesters and years. But having wished so urgently for graduation, we need to keep Cavafy's closing words in mind:

*Ithaca has given you the beautiful voyage.
Without her you would never have taken the roads.*

Stephen Means, John Weston, Quentin Smith, Jennifer Sankar, Jill Embry, and Cindy Perez keep vote tallies at the government classes' political convention.

Top: Yearbook staffers Amy Moskalick and Andrea Zacek laugh at the prospect at becoming freshmen all over again.

the 1990s, the number of people in the UK who are aged 65 and over has increased by 1.5 million, and the number of people aged 75 and over has increased by 1.2 million (Office of National Statistics 1999).

There is a growing awareness of the need to address the needs of older people in the community. The Department of Health (1999) has published a strategy for older people, which sets out the government's commitment to improve the lives of older people. The strategy is based on the following principles:

- Older people should be able to live independently and actively in the community.
- Older people should be able to access the services and facilities they need.
- Older people should be able to participate in the decisions that affect their lives.
- Older people should be able to live in a safe and secure environment.

The strategy also sets out a number of key objectives, including:

- To improve the health and well-being of older people.
- To improve the housing and living conditions of older people.
- To improve the transport and travel facilities for older people.
- To improve the social and cultural life of older people.

The strategy is a key document in the development of policy for older people in the UK. It provides a framework for the development of services and facilities for older people, and for the evaluation of the effectiveness of these services and facilities.

The strategy is also a key document in the development of research on older people. It provides a framework for the development of research on the needs of older people, and for the evaluation of the effectiveness of research on older people.

The strategy is a key document in the development of practice for older people. It provides a framework for the development of practice for older people, and for the evaluation of the effectiveness of practice for older people.

the 1990s, the number of people in the UK who are aged 65 and over has increased by 1.5 million (1990–1999) and is projected to increase by a further 1.5 million by 2010 (Office of National Statistics 2000).

There is a growing awareness of the need to develop strategies to meet the needs of the ageing population. The Department of Health (2000) has identified the need to develop a 'new paradigm' of care for the ageing population, one that is based on the concept of 'active ageing' and 'active living' (Department of Health 2000). This paradigm is based on the idea that older people should be able to live independently, actively and healthily, and that they should be able to participate in the community and in the workforce.

The Department of Health (2000) has identified a number of key areas for action in order to achieve this paradigm. These include: (1) the need to develop a 'new paradigm' of care for the ageing population, one that is based on the concept of 'active ageing' and 'active living'; (2) the need to develop a 'new paradigm' of care for the ageing population, one that is based on the concept of 'active ageing' and 'active living'; (3) the need to develop a 'new paradigm' of care for the ageing population, one that is based on the concept of 'active ageing' and 'active living'.
